Update From Ireland

Boyne Valley Baptist and Pastor Reybrun are very excited, and ready, for me to get there so we can get to work on different ministries and projects.

At the end of the month, I will start taking on some of the workload and roles in the church to help out Pastor Reyburn. I'm thankful that, since there is no language barrier I can begin doing ministry immediately.

Towards the end of March, Pastor Reyburn will be leaving the country for around a month and I will be doing all of the preaching and teaching during that time at church. I am excited to get to preach through a new series of sermons finally! As a missionary, you are often only preaching one time and then you go to the next city, but I am thankful for the opportunity to open God's Word and minister and serve this congregation.

I am incredibly excited to finally see my house in person and to have people come over to Ireland to see the ministry and work that you are supporting me to do.

Once In A Lifetime Opportunity

I just got back to the US from a scouting trip for a missions opportunity in Paris, France.

Why was a missionary to Ireland in Paris? This summer God has allowed me the opportunity to serve on a trip being put together by my missions board to take the Gospel to the world as the world comes to Paris for the Olympics!

For 3 weeks we will be leading teams doing street evangelism at 5 of the largest tourist destinations in Paris. Millions of people from all around the world will be coming for the Olympics and this may be their only time to hear about Jesus. 500,000 Gospel tracts will be passed out over the 3 week outreach event.

The tracts we are developing take people to a website where they can read and see a Gospel presentation in their language, and we will work to connect people with Bible-preaching churches in their home countries.

The other leaders I get to serve alongside on this trip are: Bob Hutton- the missions pastor from my sending church, Randy and John Laase- two missionaries serving in France who are sent out of Canton Baptist Temple, and Ben Roy- a Canadian Bible college student who is fluent in French. We spent multiple days meeting and planning so we are prepared for the teams coming this summer.

We still have spots available for this event! I'd love to see some of my supporters come and serve alongside me this summer, and there are 3 different weeks people can choose from if they are interested in coming.

Below there is a QR code that will take you directly to our outreach website if you'd like more information, would like to apply to come, or maybe you'd be interested in helping us with some of the financial needs to make this trip happen (such as helping purchasing tracts). I would greatly appreciate your prayers for this project. It truly is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to make an impact for Christ. We view this as less of a mission trip to Paris and more of a mission trip to the world because, during these 3 weeks, people from hundreds of countries will be impacted for Christ. I'm very thankful I get to be a part of it.
